Cooler Air, Rain Aids Firefighters In Several States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cooler weather and rain helped firefighters working on 44 blazes across 1.5 million acres of range and tundra in Alaska. But in Western and Northwestern states, crews were being strained to their limits today in battling an estimated 300 square miles of timber and brush fires.

The 74,500-acre "MarbleSouth Cone" fire in California's Los Padres National Forest near Big Sur may double in size before it is contained, said Joe Nadolski of the federal Interagency Fire Center at Boise, Idaho.

About 3,000 firefighters were trying to maneuver around the blaze to protect the Carmel River watershed, which purifies and collects water and acts to prevent mudslides for Carmel Valley towns, including Monterey. The six-day-old fire has already claimed watershed that officials say will take $143 million to replace.

"We have a limited number of firefighters and we have to make a decision about what resources are most important to protect," Nadolski added.

In Alaska, the fires are still "covering an area larger than the state of Delaware," Kerry Cartier, a spokesman for the Bureau of Land Management said late Sunday. But the Big Salt River fire, which at one time appeared to threaten the trans-Alaska oil pipeline north of the Yukon River is "no longer a threat at all," he said.

That 15,000-acre fire has been "60 per cent contained and the other 40 per cent borders on the Yukon, so it's not going anywhere," he added.

Most of the Alaskan fires were burning within a 175-mile radius of the Kotzebue area in the northwestern part of the state, with more than 1,200 firefighters on the line at 28 of the blazes. Sixteen fires were unmaned, Cartier said.

The largest of the fires, covering 335,000 acres about 100 miles north of Nome, has been burning since July 9. Nearly 90 men were concentrating on that blaze in an attempt to keep flames from spreading north to the village of Deering, he said.

On Sunday, 24 fresh crews, 20 men to a crew, from throughout the country were flown to fires raging in Arizona, California, Colorado, Oregon, Nevada, Utah and Washington.

The crews are professional firefighters on loan from states and various federal agencies.

Bayou Bodcau, La., $2.4 million.

The public works bill omits funds for the Clinch River Breeder Reactor in Tennessee.

Carter wants to halt construction of breeder reactors because they produce plutonium while they make power. Plutonium is an ingredient of atomic bombs. As part of his effort to stop the spread of atomic weapons, Carter has urged other nations to follow the lead of the United States in curbing plutonium production.

The bill also gives Congress 48 days to override any presidential decision to produce neutron weapons. Carter has said he will make a decision by Aug. 15.

These weapons are designed to kill by controlled radiation rather than by explosive power and heat. Since the radiation can be targeted, neutron warheads are supposed to be able to kill enemy soldiers without harming friendly troops or inflicting severe damage to buildings or enemy armaments.

Auto makers said the clean air bill is necessary to start building 1978-model cars.

The measure gives Detroit a new delay in meeting tough new auto exhaust standards. It is the fourth such postponement the automobile industry has received.

Carter urged Congress to enact the extension.

The measure puts off the tougher standards until 1980-model cars. Under existing law, they would take effect on 1978 models, to begin rolling off production lines this month.

Saying they could not meet this deadline, auto makers threatened to shut down unless granted a new extension.

Although the auto exhaust standards are the most controversial part, the legislation establishes new rules for nearly all sources of air pollution.

It gives dirty-air cities up to 10 years more to meet some standards and offers new protection for areas that now have pristine air, such as national parks.

Give Tips On Keeping Household Records

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

How long should you keep your old income tax returns?

When can you throw out canceled checks?

Where should you store copies of your insurance policies?

If you don't know the answers, you're not alone. Many Americans are confused about which personal records they need to hang on to and for how long. The federal Consumer Information Center reports that the booklet, "Keeping Records, What to Discard," is one of the agency's most popular.

The booklet is available, at no charge, from the center, Dept. 625E, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

Meanwhile, if you want to start clearing some of the clutter from household drawers, files and desks, here are a few tips:

—You do not need to keep all canceled checks. Copies of canceled checks are usually available at your bank. You should save checks you need for income tax purposes — to prove business expenditures, for example — and review the collection periodically to see which ones are outdated.

—Federal income tax returns should be kept for at least three years. That's the amount of time the Internal Revenue Service has to audit your return. There are some exceptions to the three-year limit, however. If you failed to report more than 25 per cent of your gross income, for example, the government has six years to collect the tax or start legal proceedings. There are no limits for prosecution if you filed a return that is proved fraudulent. Time limits for state income tax audits vary; check with local authorities.

—Keep receipts and sales slips for big-ticket items, particularly those

Big Blow Coming On Welfare

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's $34 billion welfare reform plan is in the eye of a political hurricane.

A new gale of conflict is coming soon. And the most significant turmoil is likely to ensue over a mystery number — a number that cannot be found anywhere in the 156 pages of briefing papers distributed by the White House to explain the plan to move able-bodied welfare recipients into jobs.

For six stormy months, the administration was buffeted by conflict among Cabinet agencies and interest groups over the shape of the plan Carter announced Saturday at a Plains, Ga., news conference.

Now, Carter's men are basking in the relative calm produced by the cautious optimism which characterized most reactions to their proposal. But in a program as broad as Carter's, each of the dozens of affected interest groups will be able to find at least one provision to protest in the big blow ahead. The missing number, however, affects all of them.

In essence, this number is the answer to the question of whether Carter's program will work, whether it will achieve the one ultimate goal of welfare reform that everyone can agree on: a reduction in the amount of money the American people pay for welfare.

The figure that isn't there is the projected number of persons who will move from welfare into private, unsubsidized jobs.

Carter proposes to create 1.4 million public jobs for welfare recipients. It was little noticed that to pay for them he would eliminate two current job programs for nearly 1 million persons, roughly half of whom were on welfare at some point.

But the new public jobs will cost the American people $8.8 billion. The public will get work in return, though some experts question how productive that work will be, given a wage ceiling at or just above the $2.30-an-hour minimum wage.

The ultimate goal of any welfare plan, however, is to reduce the number of people who depend on the government for a living and thus to reduce the cost to the public. To do this, welfare recipients need to get into private jobs.

How many recipients will do so is not easy to predict; perhaps it is impossible to predict. This uncertainty was a major reason behind Carter's acknowledgement under questioning that neither he nor his Cabinet experts could predict the year in which welfare spending might actually decline.

The number of recipients who do eventually move into private jobs depends on two factors. One is the overall economic well-being of the country. The other is Carter's success in getting a specific welfare recipient into a specific job.

Overall, Carter's men are predicting continued gradual improvement in the economy despite some minor setbacks, and they haven't been proved wrong yet.

The other crucial factor is more complicated. It stems from the fact that the mere existence of a vacant job and a jobless welfare recipient does not mean that they will get together.

Set Bridge Replacement

The Kinnikinnick Creek bridge on the Hayesville-Adelphi Road in Pickaway Township will be replaced through funds provided by the Federal-Aid Off Systems Road program.

Bids will be opened for the project Aug. 30 at the Ohio Department of Transportation office in Columbus.

Programmed estimate for right-of-way and construction costs is $110,000, and the estimated completion date is June 30, 1978.

The existing, poorly-aligned, narrow, posted bridge over Kinnikinnick Creek east of Poling Road will be replaced with a three-span, continuous reinforced concrete slab bridge on capped pile substructure.

The bridge and about 935 feet of new 20-foot approach pavement with four-foot shoulders will be on an improved alignment just north of the existing bridge.

Traffic will be routed around the replacement site over Poling Road, Kingston-Adelphi Road, Kingston-Whisler Road, and the Pickaway-Salt Creek Road.

Note Pipeline Building Waste

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trans-Alaska pipeline builders wasted $1.5 billion as workers sunbathed on the job, equipment that was stored outside was ruined and contractors ordered parts already in their own warehouses, a new report says.

The report on the $8 billion pipeline was prepared for the Alaska Pipeline Commission by Washington attorney Terry F. Lenzner, a former Watergate prosecutor.

"One of the most serious . . . of Alyeska's labor problems was that of workers frequently idle at the job site (including sleeping on buses and sunbathing along the right-of-way)," the report said.

"Alyeska's own documents show that the principal responsibility for idleness rested with management's poor supervision and utilization of the work force."

The pipeline, operated by the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., delivered its first oil from the North Slope to the Alaskan port of Valdez last week. The pipeline has been the subject of a number of investigations following charges of irregularities and excessive costs.

The report described a chaotic process of storing equipment and ordering spare parts.

"Execution contractors desperately sought to requisition spare parts which (unbeknownst to them) were already located in their own warehouses," Lenzner's report said.

"Because of inadequate warehouse space, equipment and material were often stored outside and effectively lost after the first snowfall. By the time the spring thaw came, much material had either been ruined by the weather or stolen."

The findings could be helpful in Alaska's drive to keep to a minimum the costs for transporting oil through the pipeline. A special formula gives Alaska more oil income as transportation costs decline.

The state could argue that unreasonably high construction costs should not be counted in determining the transportation charges, Lenzner said. He called such an exclusion "established regulatory doctrine."

Alaska is one of several protesters trying to convince the Interstate Commerce Commission that the eight oil companies who built the line want to charge too much in oil transportation costs. The commission has approved temporary charges but is investigating permanent tariffs that the companies can charge.

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President Carter is giving final consideration to clean-air legislation and a $10 billion public works bill that includes nine of 18 water projects he originally wanted to kill.

The President is expected to sign the two measures today, barring any last-minute snag, said White House Press Secretary Jody Powell.

Considering the legislation, along with a stack of proposals for his tax program, interrupted a five-day vacation the President began in his hometown last Friday.

Carter and his family ducked taking sides in a bitter dispute over racial and other issues that have divided their Plains Baptist Church. They attended Sunday school there, but went to services at the new Maranatha Baptist Church, formed by a splinter group.

The public works bill contains money for 500 water projects. Although he gave in to Congress on nine, Carter has won acknowledgement that, because of his review of 30 of the projects and his fight to kill 18, the pork barrel will be harder to fill from now on.

Carter reviewed the original 30 projects for their safety and environmental and financial costs. Last April, he announced that 18 failed to pass the test.

Of those 18, these projects and these amounts to fund them were included in the compromise:

Applegate Lake, Ore., $7.4 million; Atchafalaya River, La., $5.1 million; Cache Basin, Ark., $93 million; Columbia Dam, Tenn., $20 million; Hillsdale Lake, Kan., $14 million; the Richard B. Russell Dam in Georgia and South Carolina, $21 million; Tallahala Creek, Miss., $5 million; Auburn, Calif., $39.7 million, and Bayou Bodcau, La., $2.4 million.

The public works bill omits funds for the Clinch River Breeder Reactor in Tennessee.

Welfare Overhaul To Bring Tax Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's plan to overhaul the nation's welfare system would put at least a few dollars into the pockets of more than half of America's taxpayers, administration officials say.

A provision that Carter said would go largely to "hard-pressed workers with modest incomes struggling successfully to avoid welfare" also would benefit families whose annual earnings are as high as $15,600 for a family of four.

One official, who took part in the plan's preparation, said it "would constitute substantial tax relief for millions of Americans, and well over half of American taxpayers will receive at least some benefit."

The gains for the middle class as well as the poor would come from an expansion of the earned income tax credit, a $3.3 billion addition to the President's $30.7 billion plan to provide cash for those who can't or aren't expected to work along with jobs for those the government says are employable.

Another administration official, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., was asked Sunday why billions of dollars in tax relief for the middle class was included in the package.

"It has always been part of President Carter's tax reform objective to provide some relief for the middle class Americans in this country," Califano said.

"It becomes an integral part of the welfare-jobs program of the President because it's important to have a mechanism to make it always more valuable for an individual to work in the private sector than in public service jobs, and the earned income tax credit does that," he added.

The refundable tax credit is now worth up to $400 a year to families of the working poor who pay little or no federal income tax.

The credit pays a 10 per cent rebate on all earnings up to $4,000, so a family with that income gets an annual cash rebate of $400.

When a family makes more than $4,000, however, the credit is taken away in a reverse manner, disappearing entirely at an income of $8,000. Under the Carter proposal, the tax credit would remain at 10 per cent for the first $4,000 in income.

But instead of phasing out at between $4,000 and $8,000, the credit would continue to increase, although at only 5 per cent, until the family reaches the so-called tax entry point, at which a family would have to begin paying federal income tax.

Robert S. Loschiavo, 45, Columbus, suffered minor injuries when he lost control of his motorcycle on the Route 23 South entrance ramp at the cloverleaf west of Circleville.

Loschiavo told Trooper A. R. Svetek that he lost control of his motorcycle on loose gravel.

He refused treatment for injuries suffered in the 1:57 p.m. Saturday crash.

Paul M. Dawson, 35, 637 S. Court St., suffered minor cuts in a 5:15 p.m. Sunday crash in the Walnut Creek bridge on Route 752.

Trooper P.R. Long referred Dawson to a doctor for treatment of the facial cuts.

Dawson told Trooper Long that he was driving east through the bridge when an oncoming vehicle went left of center.

The outside mirrors on both vehicles hit and shattered and Dawson was cut by the glass. Driver of the other vehicle continued without stopping.

covered by a warranty. You may need proof of purchase if you have a problem.

—Keep a household inventory in case of fire or burglary. List the item, the date purchased, the cost, the model number if possible, the brand name, the dealer's name and a general description. Snapshots of your rooms also can help identify possessions. Update the inventory with any major purchase.

Irreplaceable papers — marriage and birth certificates; divorce, adoption and citizenship papers, and other documents that are recorded with the courts or the government — should be kept in a safe deposit box. One copy of your household inventory also should go in the safe deposit box. (Keep another copy at home and give a third copy to your insurance company.) Tax returns, education and employment records, bank books and Social Security cards do not need the protection of a safe deposit box; they can be replaced relatively easily.

—The original copy of a will is usually kept in the safe of the attorney who prepared it. You will get two copies. Put one in the safe deposit box and leave the other in a readily accessible place at home. It is a good idea to leave funeral and burial instructions in the same spot. Let someone — such as your lawyer — know where these items are kept, since there can be legal delay in getting copies from your safe deposit box after your death.

Small Town Fights With Phone Company

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Customers of the tiny Hickory Telephone Co. fought 21 months to get their telephone rates reduced by $3 a month, but their bills are still the highest in the state.

And townsfolk — many without telephones to protest the rates — say they may continue their grassroots crusade for lower telephone bills and better service.

The state Public Service Commission (PSC) on Friday ordered the new rate of $13.25 a month for basic one-party service. Most Michigan homeowners pay $7.50 to $8.50 a month for the service.

The PSC's decision came nearly two years after its unanimous vote in November 1975 to boost rates from $10.60 to $16.35 for the then-930 customers of the company.

When that happened, residents of Hickory Corners, which is located about 40 miles southwest of here, exploded with outrage.

More than 100 of them stormed the company offices to cancel their telephone service. They hired an attorney and an accountant after raising $32,000 through bake sales, dances, paper drives, pancake breakfasts, Tupperware parties, raffles and firewood sales.

They launched a letter-writing campaign and won the support of the state attorney general's office.

On Friday, about 25 residents traveled to Lansing for the PSC meeting.

"The commission has just given us a token decrease to try to justify their previous mistakes. We're very unhappy with it," said Buster Shook, a construction worker who has led the protest.

"I think they're for the big guys," concluded another customer.

Firefighters On Strike

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Firemen in Dayton walked off their jobs this morning leaving the southwestern Ohio city of 241,000 persons without fire protection and ambulance service.

Tim Harker, president of 375-member Dayton Firefighters Local 136, said the strike was kept secret until it began for maximum effect.

Dayton City Manager James Alloway immediately branded the walkout as "unpardonable."

Alloway issued a statement telling Dayton citizens to continue calling if emergency service is needed, but only a few officers remained on duty as the firefighters picketed outside the fire stations.

The firemen have been working nine months without a contract. They have demanded that their work week be shortened from 52 to 48 hours.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market headed lower today, beset by continuing concern over the interest-rate outlook.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped more than 3 points in early trading.

Losers took a slight lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

There were widespread forecasts by credit analysts that the Federal Reserve would soon tighten credit further by encouraging short term interest rates to rise.

Today's early Big Board prices included Federal National Mortgage, unchanged at 17½; Upjohn, up ½ at 35, and American Express, off ½ at 40¾.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average eked out a .52 advance to 888.69, closing the week with a net loss of 1.76.

Gainers outpaced losers by a modest margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 19.94 million shares, against 18.87 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index rose .02 to 54.04.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .22 at 120.53.

Canton Man Killed By Lightning Bolt

DOVER, Ohio (AP) — Terry Miller, 30, of Canton was killed early Sunday when he was struck by lightning while giggling frogs in the Tuscarawas River, Tuscarawas County deputies said.

They said Miller and two companions were looking for frogs when a storm came up. The companions told deputies they took shelter under a tree and Miller was struck. They said the force of the bolt knocked him into the river.

Miller was dead on arrival at a hospital. His companions were treated and released, deputies said.

A Page Of Opinion

Soviet Spying

Serving as a reminder that the "cold war" between the Soviet Union and the United States never really stopped, within one week a Californian has been sentenced to life in prison for selling top-secret documents to the Soviets and two men—one American and the other a West German—were arrested in Florida on charges of conspiring to smuggle parts of the top-secret Cruise missile to the Soviet Union through Cuba. So far, of course, the two arrested in Florida have only been charged, not convicted. But the FBI has filed affidavits at a federal hearing charging the American with furnishing military and defense secrets to the West German for more than two years. The West German national also is one of a number of defendants awaiting trial in West Germany on charges of spying for the Soviets.

The charges are serious. If proven, it could mean one of the weapons the President has chosen as a major component of the nation's defenses could be compromised. These are not the acts on which a sincere detente is constructed.

Dogs For All Seasons

By JIM BISHOP

Brownie was the first. I was 10, riding a bike home from school. He ran in front, snapping and snarling at the tire. Brownie was a mutt. I suspected that he wanted to be friends. I stopped.

We became buddies. Every day he accompanied me to school. When I said, "Go home," he turned away, hung his head and tail, and kept looking for a reprieve over his shoulder. In winter, he slept under the blankets at the foot of the bed.

Momma was afraid of dogs. In summer, she sent him to the S.P.C.A. to be killed. I hitched rides on trucks to beat the gas chamber, but the man said I was five minutes late. It is shameful to lean against a wall and cry. I have not wept since.

There were other dogs. Dozens. When I had my own house, sometimes two were in residence. Training was easy. Two dissimilar sounding words, "No" and "Okay," used without shouting, worked on all. Some were serious dogs who frowned.

Others were comedians. I was doing a little fancy drinking in New York and a lady gave Sixtus to me. He was a Saint Bernard pup. He had a brown-and-white head the size of an office safe. He was on the back seat of the Ford and occupied the entire rear-view mirror.

He lasted a week. My wife saw him in the morning coming down the stairs with Gayle, 2. They took a look and walked backward upstairs. He loved snow. And he loved touching noses with Gayle and watching her fall backward in a snowsuit. Sixtus ate everything including corn on the cob.

Duke of Amherst was given by a trumpet player. He was a pedigreed English Springer—the dog, that is. He was also a solemn-eyed drunk. Duke would drink anything as long as it was straight. His hangover was Matt Moran's saloon. His forepaws hung nicely over the top of the bar.

The barflies thought his hangover expression was perfect. "Gimme a Scotch and soda and see what my friend with the long ears will have." He arrived home trotting on a bias with a yard of tongue hanging out. My wife didn't like him. My sole defense was, "He can't be drunk. I don't know anybody who would give us a drink much less our dog."

It didn't work. He was sent to a farm. He died three months later—dried out—and my old man blamed me for the death. "That poor dog had a weakness," he roared, "and you refused to tell the farmer about it."

Scamper was Gayle's dog. He pretended to be a boxer. She bathed him in the kitchen sink. One evening I tossed him a hunk of meat. "Stop!" she begged. I asked why. "It's Friday," she shouted. "So?" "So he's a Catholic dog. I christened him with holy water."

Suzie was grayish. An English bulldog. Busted teeth stuck from her lower jaw. She had shoe-button eyes, a corkscrew tail, and lots of years. If she could get pregnant, I figured, so could Grandma Moses.

She got pregnant. English bulls give birth to two or three. Suzie spent two days giving birth to 14. She had two piles of torn newspapers. The nine live ones went on one pile; the five stillborns were on the other.

She cut the umbilicals and licked their bellies to make them breathe. She didn't cry or whistle through her nose. All she asked was privacy.

Rock of Shrewsbury was the most dignified German shepherd I knew. He never bit anyone, but he could stand like a statue and stare a stranger down. He was also a good baby-sitter for Ginny and Charley's twins. Nobody got into the bedroom, including the parents.

Like everyone in the world, he had a weakness. He liked to bury bones in the back. In the morning, he needed a treasure map. He could never remember where the goodies were.

Our present shepherd, Charlie Chan, is nine. Kelly has trained him to eat anything, including scallions and tomatoes. We tried to mate him with a lady shepherd. Her owner gave Charlie Chan a cookie.

The jerk was so polite that he carried it out back in his teeth. He dropped the cookie at the lady's feet. She bit him on the head. Four stitches and a vow of chastity.

Bob Considine knew me as well as most. I was in Israel researching a book called "The Day Christ Died." He was holding a bar up with Budd Schulberg and Irwin Shaw.

"Bishop," he said solemnly, "has a guaranteed bestseller." "How come?" they said. "His research shows," Considine said, "that Jesus had a dog."...

LAFF - A - DAY

"There's one thing I wish, Franklin — that you'd leave your corporate image at the office."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My 7-year-old son went to day camp recently. The doctor who examined him said that he had a heart murmur and thought that we should see a specialist about it. When we took him to our own doctor, he said that he knew about the murmur, but since it was unimportant he hadn't wanted to worry us. Shouldn't we have been told about this a long time ago?

Mrs. T. G., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. G.:

The decision as to whether or not to tell the parents about an unimportant heart murmur is one that doctors face often.

Sometimes if he tells the parents about it, he explains that this kind of "functional" murmur is of no concern, many people become terrified and almost instinctively limit their child's activities.

Many children have actually been made physical and psychological invalids by the exaggeration of the importance of a slight heart murmur.

If, on the other hand, the doctor tried to spare the parents' anxiety by not telling them about the murmur, there is always another kind of risk involved. And this happened to you when another doctor at camp made mention of the murmur. Sometimes this can destroy the vital relationship between the family and the doctor.

In the daily practice of medicine, decisions of this sort are made by measuring the advantages against the disadvantages of revealing too much to patients. The emotional capacity of parents and their ability to cope with problems are taken into consideration. In most instances, at least one member of the family is taken into the doctor's confidence so that he does not shoulder the entire burden himself.

Now that you know that your child has a murmur, it is imperative that he be protected from that knowledge, and not overprotected, or restricted from all normal, healthy activities and sports.

Many functional murmurs disappear during adolescence. When children have imposed on them constant limitation of activities, emotional scars persist, even after the murmur has disappeared.

So once and for all, you, your doctor and the heart specialist must establish the fact that this type of heart murmur is not a serious one. For there are other heart murmurs, of course which are associated with all kinds of heart defects. Once these are ruled out, don't make your son a "heart invalid."

I hope he is at camp and having a great time!

Small Gasifier Plant May Help Industries

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A simple, cheap process for turning coal into low-energy gas for industry, ignored in the United States for nearly 40 years, may be one answer to shrinking fuel supplies, a Pittsburgh company says.

The so-called small gasifier plant uses proven technology and "off-the-shelf" hardware and requires no extraordinary capital investment. It can be built within 18 months.

"We think there is going to be a lot of this type of facility built in the next four or five years," said Robert W. Culbertson, marketing manager for Dravo Corp.'s synthetic fuels department.

His company is so certain the process can be profitable that it has offered to build small gasifier plants anywhere in the country and sell the gas to long-term customers.

Dravo is also actively recruiting small gasifier plant customers in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia through a joint program with Consolidated Natural Gas Co.

A plant capable of producing 1.5 billion BTUs of fuel daily — the equivalent of 1.5 million cubic feet of natural gas — would cost about $4 million, including environmental and safety controls.

Its daily energy output would cost about $4,500, compared with natural gas costs of $3,000. However, as companies learned last winter, natural gas is not always available.

"Probably the most important economic factor to be considered is that this type of industrial fuel gas production represents a non-curtailable source of energy," Culbertson said.

Another advantage is that the plant, which makes gas by burning coal in a low-pressure chamber, extracts about 75 per cent of coal's heat potential.

One drawback is the production of carbon monoxide. However, coke oven gas, which is used extensively as an energy source in the steel industry, also contains carbon monoxide. Dravo thinks the new gas could be safely used.

"In the 1920s there were about 11,000 of these small gasifiers in the United States," said Culbertson, who presented Dravo's ideas to the International Conference on Coal Gasification, Liquefaction and Conversion to Energy at the University of Pittsburgh this week.

"They produced the gas that was used in our cities and in our plants at that time, but when pipelines and natural gas came to the North in the 1940s and 50s, they were phased out."

NEW YORK (AP) — Curtis Carlson, whose original goal was to sell enough soap to make $100 a week, is now on schedule toward his current goal of $1 billion a year in sales.

When that goal is met he'll aim higher.

Goals accomplished beget goals to seek for Carlson, the Minneapolis entrepreneur who at age 63 personally owns hotels, restaurants, incentive companies, a construction concern, an advertising agency — and much, much more.

"One of my weaknesses is I can never see stopping," he said the other day in a telephone call from York, Maine, where he had anchored his 83-foot yacht after a cruise down the coast from Camden and Boothbay Harbor.

A setting such as this, although but for a few days, is not rare for Carlson but neither does it suggest his style. His work and pleasure mingle; his mind never stops dreaming of growth. It's his creative expression.

"I have always maintained that you will stay even with your competitor by working five days a week but you can get ahead of your competition by working six days," he has written about his business philosophy.

This, and goal setting, along with a masterful understanding of management, have helped the Carlson Companies, personally owned by him, to obtain a sales rate this year of $721 million. The $1 billion goal is for 1981.

Gold Bond (trading) Stamps, Raddison Hotels, Ardan Jewelers, TGI Friday's restaurants, Star Market, May Company, Country Kitchen, Indian Wells Oil Co. and Superior Fiber Products are among his companies.

There are many, many more, and many more are bound to be added too; it's the way things are at Carlson Companies, which now employs more than 10,000 workers.

While students of business will spend the next century analyzing what it is that sets Carlson apart, that makes him a phenomenon of enterprise akin to Ford and Carnegie and Edison and other giants of yesterday, some things already are clear.

Growth, for example, is not the exercise of predatory instincts; it is part of a management philosophy that equates growth with strength. Companies that fail to grow fail to attract and stimulate the best minds, says Carlson.

How in the world did Carlson do it? Only snatches of the story are possible to understand and relate, such as what he said in an interview, that "I didn't build the company; I built an organization and the organization built the company."

A Page Of Opinion

Soviet Spying

Serving as a reminder that the "cold war" between the Soviet Union and the United States never really stopped, within one week a Californian has been sentenced to life in prison for selling top-secret documents to the Soviets and two men—one American and the other a West German—were arrested in Florida on charges of conspiring to smuggle parts of the top-secret Cruise missile to the Soviet Union through Cuba.

So far, of course, the two arrested in Florida have only been charged, not convicted. But the FBI has filed affidavits at a federal hearing charging the American with furnishing military and defense secrets to the West German for more than two years. The West German national also is one of a number of defendants awaiting trial in West Germany on charges of spying for the Soviets.

The charges are serious. If proven, it could mean one of the weapons the President has chosen as a major component of the nation's defenses could be compromised. These are not the acts on which a sincere detente is constructed.

Dogs For All Seasons

By JIM BISHOP

Brownie was the first. I was 10, riding a bike home from school. He ran in front, snapping and snarling at the tire. Brownie was a mutt. I suspected that he wanted to be friends. I stopped.

We became buddies. Every day he accompanied me to school. When I said, "Go home," he turned away, hung his head and tail, and kept looking for a reprieve over his shoulder. In winter, he slept under the blankets at the foot of the bed.

Momma was afraid of dogs. In summer, she sent him to the S.P.C.A. to be killed. I hitched rides on trucks to beat the gas chamber, but the man said I was five minutes late. It is shameful to lean against a wall and cry. I have not wept since.

There were other dogs. Dozens. When I had my own house, sometimes two were in residence. Training was easy. Two dissimilar sounding words, "No" and "Okay", used without shouting, worked on all. Some were serious dogs who frowned.

Others were comedians. I was doing a little fancy drinking in New York and a lady gave Sixtus to me. He was a Saint Bernard pup. He had a brown-and-white head the size of an office safe. He was on the back seat of the Ford and occupied the entire rear-view mirror.

He lasted a week. My wife saw him in the morning coming down the stairs with Gayle, 2. They took a look and walked backward upstairs. He loved snow. And he loved touching noses with Gayle and watching her fall backward in a snowsuit. Sixtus ate everything including corn on the cob.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My 7-year-old son went to day camp recently. The doctor who examined him said that he had a heart murmur and thought that we should see a specialist about it. When we took him to our own doctor, he said that he knew about the murmur, but since it was unimportant he hadn't wanted to worry us. Shouldn't we have been told about this a long time ago?

Mrs. T. G., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. G.:

The decision as to whether or not to tell the parents about an unimportant heart murmur is one that doctors face often.

Sometimes if he tells the parents about it, he explains that this kind of "functional" murmur is of no concern, many people become terrified and almost instinctively limit their child's activities.

Many children have actually been made physical and psychological invalids by the exaggeration of the importance of a slight heart murmur.

If, on the other hand, the doctor tried to spare the parents' anxiety by not telling them about the murmur, there is always another kind of risk involved. And this happened to you when another doctor at camp made mention of the murmur. Sometimes this can destroy the vital relationship between the family and the doctor.

In the daily practice of medicine, decisions of this sort are made by measuring the advantages against the

Many functional murmurs disappear during adolescence. When children have imposed on them constant limitation of activities, emotional scars persist, even after the murmur has disappeared.

So once and for all, you, your doctor and the heart specialist must establish the fact that this type of heart murmur is not a serious one. For there are other heart murmurs, of course which are associated with all kinds of heart defects. Once these are ruled out, don't make your son a "heart invalid."

I hope he is at camp and having a great time!

Small Gasifier Plant May Help Industries

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A simple, cheap process for turning coal into low-energy gas for industry, ignored in the United States for nearly 40 years, may be one answer to shrinking fuel supplies, a Pittsburgh company says.

Ohio Senate Report

By OAKLEY C. COLLINS
17th District Senator

The most important action by the Senate before adjournment last Friday was when that body accepted the report of the House-Senate conference committee on Amended Senate Bill 221, the budget language bill.

Among the most important aspects of the report was a provision affecting local school districts whose tax millage has fallen below the state-mandated 20 mill levels because of increased property values brought on by reappraisal of real property.

Under the provisions of Senate Bill 221, such districts must raise their millage level to at least 18 mills in the first year of the biennium and then back to the 20 mill level in the second year in order to qualify for state assistance.

Probably the most controversial bill passed last week by the Senate was Substitute Senate Bill 160. This bill limits the amount of the cost of certain utility company advertising that may be recovered by the company through its rates.

The legislation is designed to discourage utility company advertising in such areas as attempts to influence legislation, attempts to encourage greater consumption of energy, etc. Advertising which promotes conservation of energy would not be affected under this bill.

Supporters of the legislation claim the bill will save money for the consumer. Opponents charged that any savings achieved under the bill would be extremely small (around 2-3 cents per customer). More important, the bill raises some very serious constitutional questions in the area of First Amendment freedoms (freedom of speech, etc.). It is very likely that this bill, which attempts to curtail a corporation's ability to communicate with its customers, will be tested in the courts.

Also passed by the Senate last week was Amended Substitute House Joint Resolution 18 which calls for a constitutional amendment to allow the state and its subdivisions to provide monetary assistance (credit, etc.) for housing construction and rehabilitation. This proposed amendment will now be placed on the November ballot.

Another somewhat controversial bill to permit persons other than nurses and physicians to administer anesthetics — under certain specified conditions — was also passed by the Senate. Supporters of this bill claimed that it would remedy the problem of a lack of anesthesiologists which is particularly severe in northeastern Ohio. Opponents denied that a shortage existed in that area and also warned that passage of the bill could worsen the malpractice problem in Ohio if such anesthetics were administered improperly. After considerable debate, the bill passed by a vote of 20-12.

Two bills which are designed to assist in the collection of delinquent tax payments from railroads operating in Ohio received Senate approval. This legislation — Substitute House Bills 336 and 445 — would allow county treasurers to make suitable arrangements to obtain as large a tax settlement as possible from these railroads. The bills are very detailed and complex pieces of legislation which attempt to remedy a tax delinquency problem which has caused serious financial difficulties for many Ohio counties and school districts.

The Senate also acted to create an Ohio Merit Scholarship Program when it passed Amended House Bill 666. The bill, which passed by a 28 to 5 margin, is designed to provide recognition and financial assistance to Ohio's most gifted students in hopes of encouraging them to obtain their college education here in Ohio.

Several key measures still under consideration will be discussed in next week's report.

Columbia Customers Can Winterproof Their Bills

Columbia Gas customers who dread the approach of winter with its higher heating bills can "winterproof" their bills next winter by joining the company's Budget Payment Plan when they pay their gas bills this month.

Calvin Danford, Circleville area manager for the gas company, said once they join the plan, customers pay a budget amount for gas service each month. This means the cost of winter heating is spread evenly over the entire year, and is not concentrated in just the five winter heating months.

More than 580,000 Columbia customers already have found the Budget Payment Plan a convenient, practical way to "winterproof" their heating bills, the manager said, and many more are expected to join this year.

"Today every family budgets house payments, rent, car and credit card payments," Danford said. "Budgeting the cost of gas service is just as logical."

The decision to join the Budget Payment Plan is up to the individual customer, Danford pointed out. Columbia simply offers the plan as a free service for any residential or commercial customer who wishes to take advantage of it.

If a customer decides to join, he does so by paying the budget amount shown on his next gas bill and continuing to pay the budget amount each month thereafter.

The budget amount is based on each customer's history of gas usage, adjusted for current gas rates and normal weather conditions. Major changes in any of these factors can result in budget amount adjustments when the accounts are reviewed prior to the end of the November-March heating season, the manager indicated.

Customers wishing additional information on the Budget Payment Plan can call or stop by their local gas company office, Danford said. "We will be happy to answer any questions or provide any further information on this proven and popular way to spread the impact of winter heating bills evenly over the year."

Ohio Senate Report

By OAKLEY C. COLLINS
17th District Senator

The most important action by the Senate before adjournment last Friday was when that body accepted the report of the House-Senate conference committee on Amended Senate Bill 221, the budget language bill.

Among the most important aspects of the report was a provision affecting local school districts whose tax millage has fallen below the state-mandated 20 mill levels because of increased property values brought on by reappraisal of real property.

Under the provisions of Senate Bill 221, such districts must raise their millage level to at least 18 mills in the first year of the biennium and then back to the 20 mill level in the second year in order to qualify for state assistance.

Probably the most controversial bill passed last week by the Senate was Substitute Senate Bill 160. This bill limits the amount of the cost of certain utility company advertising that may be recovered by the company through its rates.

The legislation is designed to discourage utility company advertising in such areas as attempts to influence legislation, attempts to encourage greater consumption of energy, etc. Advertising which promotes conservation of energy would not be affected under this bill.

Supporters of the legislation claim the bill will save money for the consumer. Opponents charged that any savings achieved under the bill would be extremely small (around 2-3 cents per customer). More important, the bill raises some very serious constitutional questions in the area of First Amendment freedoms (freedom of speech, etc.). It is very likely that this bill, which attempts to curtail a corporation's ability to communicate with its customers, will be tested in the courts.

Also passed by the Senate last week was Amended Substitute House Joint Resolution 18 which calls for a constitutional amendment to allow the state and its subdivisions to provide monetary assistance (credit, etc.) for housing construction and rehabilitation. This proposed amendment will now be placed on the November ballot.

Another somewhat controversial bill to permit persons other than nurses and physicians to administer anesthetics — under certain specified conditions — was also passed by the Senate. Supporters of this bill claimed that it would remedy the problem of a lack of anesthesiologists which is particularly severe in northeastern Ohio. Opponents denied that a shortage existed in that area and also warned that passage of the bill could worsen the malpractice problem in Ohio if such anesthetics were administered improperly. After considerable debate, the bill passed by a vote of 20-12.

Rhodes Fights Budget Hooks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — In an effort to broaden his own options, Gov. James A. Rhodes has asked Lt. Gov. Richard F. Celeste not to sign a wide-ranging, budget-related bill until it is "Reduced in scope."

Rhodes said Friday the legislation, designed by Democrats to avert his line-item veto power, violates a constitutional provision requiring that only one subject be addressed in a single bill.

Cuts In Welfare May Bring Death

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Lucille Esposito has spent the last 36 years feeding, bathing and caring for a daughter who fell into a coma at age 6.

Now Mrs. Esposito is worried she may have to move Elaine Cinderella from home into an institution because the federal government is holding back health benefits.

"We can't make it much longer," said Mrs. Esposito, herself recovering from recent open-heart surgery. "They are forcing us to put Elaine into a nursing home."

"That isn't right. A mother can care for her daughter much better than some nurse's aide. But without the money and the services, what can we do?"

Until July of last year, Medicaid paid for drugs and medical expenses for Elaine, now 42, who went into a coma after a simple appendectomy. But when the woman's Social Security benefits were increased, she no longer qualified for Medicaid funds.

Good Samaritan Class Holds Picnic

The Good Samaritan Class of the Nazarene Church held their picnic Monday evening at A. W. Marion State Park.

Present were, the Rev. and Mrs. Hill, the Rev. and Mrs. Pusey, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Carter, Rosie Glitt, Minnie Strawser, Etta May Allen, Martha Hollabaugh, Josie Riegel, Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Dunkle, Tom Ganes, Mrs. Edward Starkey and children, Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Rhodes and family, Mrs. Lucille Peters and daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ward and family.

Farrar Reunion Held

The 6th annual Farrar Reunion was held July 31 at Gold Cliff Park.

A silver dollar was presented to the youngest Aaron Bapst, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bapst. Having the most grandchildren, was Mrs. Emma Farrar, and being the most recently married, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Farrar.

The bill, approved by both Houses but not yet delivered to Rhodes, specifies how funds in the $14 billion state budget for 1977-79 should be spent and includes a scattering of other Democratic-backed items.

"The bill deals with 15 to 20 separate subjects," the Republican governor said in a letter to Celeste, a Democrat. "Some of them I approve, and some I disapprove."

Celeste, who as presiding officer of the Senate must sign all enacted bills to certify that constitutional requirements have been met, said he would "certainly make every effort to satisfy myself that the bill meets the procedural requirements for passage before certifying it to the governor for his consideration."

But the lieutenant governor said he was "not satisfied" that it was up to him to certify the constitutionality of the content of a bill, rather than merely how it was handled in the legislative process.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, who received a similar letter from the governor, has the same responsibility in the House. He was not available for comment.

"What I am seeking is a cessation of the unconstitutional effort to deny to the governor the check and balance role in legislation assigned to him in the Ohio Constitution," Rhodes said.

The governor cited language in the constitution stating that, "no bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title."

Rhodes said the purpose of the "single subject requirement" was to assure that neither members of the legislature nor the governor were forced to approve something they oppose in order to get something they support.

Rhodes Fights Budget Hooks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — In an effort to broaden his own options, Gov. James A. Rhodes has asked Lt. Gov. Richard F. Celeste not to sign a wide-ranging, budget-related bill until it is "Reduced in scope."

Rhodes said Friday the legislation, designed by Democrats to avert his line-item veto power, violates a constitutional provision requiring that only one subject be addressed in a single bill.

The bill, approved by both Houses but not yet delivered to Rhodes, specifies how funds in the $14 billion state budget for 1977-79 should be spent and includes a scattering of other Democratic-backed items.

"The bill deals with 15 to 20 separate subjects," the Republican governor said in a letter to Celeste, a Democrat. "Some of them I approve, and some I disapprove."

Celeste, who as presiding officer of the Senate must sign all enacted bills to certify that constitutional requirements have been met, said he would "certainly make every effort to satisfy myself that the bill meets the procedural requirements for passage before certifying it to the governor for his consideration."

But the lieutenant governor said he was "not satisfied" that it was up to him to certify the constitutionality of the content of a bill, rather than merely how it was handled in the legislative process.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, who received a similar letter from the governor, has the same responsibility in the House. He was not available for comment.

"What I am seeking is a cessation of the unconstitutional effort to deny to the governor the check and balance role in legislation assigned to him in the Ohio Constitution," Rhodes said.

The governor cited language in the constitution stating that, "no bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title."

Rhodes said the purpose of the "single subject requirement" was to assure that neither members of the legislature nor the governor were forced to approve something they oppose in order to get something they support.

Cuts In Welfare May Bring Death

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Lucille Esposito has spent the last 36 years feeding, bathing and caring for a daughter who fell into a coma at age 6.

Now Mrs. Esposito is worried she may have to move Elaine Cinderella from home into an institution because the federal government is holding back health benefits.

"We can't make it much longer," said Mrs. Esposito, herself recovering from recent open-heart surgery. "They are forcing us to put Elaine into a nursing home."

"That isn't right. A mother can care for her daughter much better than some nurse's aide. But without the money and the services, what can we do?"

Until July of last year, Medicaid paid for drugs and medical expenses for Elaine, now 42, who went into a coma after a simple appendectomy. But when the woman's Social Security benefits were increased, she no longer qualified for Medicaid funds.

FIVE 'A' AWARDS — Amy Easterday, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Easterday, Route 2, Williamsport, had five A awards, a first on Fun with Home Furnishings, and outstanding of the day in Joyful Jumpers.

As it stands now, Mrs. Esposito would have to institutionalize her daughter to get Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits.

Mrs. Esposito and her husband both are disabled and unable to work. Although they depend almost entirely on the federal benefits to provide what their comatose daughter needs, they have resisted numerous attempts by doctors willing to "pull the plug."

"I guess I'm the 'plug,'" says Mrs. Esposito.

"I thought we had won the case. I just can't believe they would do this. My only hope is there is someone up there with a heart."

In April federal Administrative Law Judge Charles Lockwood of Tampa stepped in and overruled the Medicaid regulation, ordering that $2,000 in back benefits be paid to the Espositos.

He also reinstated a monthly $20 drug allowance, use of a suction machine to clear Elaine's paralyzed throat and state aid for 20 per cent of all medical bills.

But when the judge's decision was sent to Washington, D.C., for compliance, someone in either the Atlanta or Baltimore SSI Bureau protested the decision and sent it to the HEW Appeals Council. No action has been taken for the past four months.

The Social Security Administration would not reveal the protestor's name or reason for the decision. But one official said, "It is rare when a judge decides in favor of the individual (over the agency) and rarer still that anyone would protest such a decision. Everyone up here is disturbed about it."

Cold cuts, cold sliced roast meat and salads with mayonnaise are highly susceptible to spoilage unless they are kept cold. Don't overload the serving dish; keep seconds hot or refrigerated and refill as needed.

Wants Hurricane Named After Her

DEAR ABBY: About that woman who objected because hurricanes were named after women but God was always spoken of as "He," "Him," and "Our Father":

Tell those women libbers to knock it off. Each season I keep hoping the National Weather Bureau will name a hurricane after me, and now there is a move afoot in Washington to force the Bureau to change the system and name hurricanes after men, mythological characters, or, worse yet, numbers.

It would be interesting to hear how other women feel about this latest asinine attempt to turn a few "tempest storms" into nothing more than hot air.

I say, let 'em blow it out their ear!

God"—so bring on your hurricane!

DOROTHY D.
DEAR ABBY: This is in answer to all the gripes from ungrateful mothers who complained about what they received (or didn't receive) for Mother's Day:

My husband and I recently celebrated our 50th wedding anniversary, and for 47 of those years we received the same kind of "thank you" notes from his mother.

Example: "Nice of you to send me flowers for Easter, but why did you send me lilies? I'm not dead yet. Or maybe that's what you want?"

The next Easter I sent a fresh fruit pack. Her thank-you: "I can get better fruit at the supermarket. And cheaper, too."

Then I tried bath salts. Her response: "Are you telling me I need a bath?"

Whenever my mother-in-law received a card from us, she'd say to her son, "I know SHE (meaning me) bought it. Couldn't you take time out yourself?" When talking to her son, she always referred to me as "she," "her," or "your wife."

Now the lady is gone, and she never knew how much I really loved her. All she had to do was reach out. I was there all the time.

"SHE"

DEAR "SHE": Don't be too critical of your late mother-in-law. The poor dear never learned to give or accept affection with grace because she herself probably had so little as a child.

Taxidermy Demonstration Scheduled

BIRDS EYE VIEW — This photo was taken Friday afternoon of Pickaway County Fair week. Many other area residents saw the fairgrounds from a similar vantage point in the Mid Ohio Chemicals' helicopter that took up a four-day residence in the parking lot of the fairgrounds, and offered rides to those adventurous souls who wanted to fly. For a bit of orientation, the helicopter was over Route 22 East, with the camera pointed southwest, when this picture was taken.

Caring For Beetles Occupies Man's Time

CINCINNATI (AP) — His livelihood might send some people screaming for an exterminator, but Milan Busching claims he has the perfect job — caring for giant beetles and hand-feeding stubborn butterflies.

Busching is the entomologist at the Cincinnati Zoo and is preparing for the opening next year of a new "Insectarium."

An entire building will be devoted to insects and visitors will be able to see them alive instead of stuck on boards with pins.

"I'm right in my element," said Busching, "raising insects and collecting them. That's something I've been doing since I was a child."

The 26-year-old Busching spends his day feeding apple slices to four inch beetles and doling out fruitflies and more than 1,000 crickets a week to insects like the scorpion and mantis.

"I admit that insects are hard for most people to deal with," Busching said. "Insects don't have personalities like a mammal. You can't get attached to them like you can to a dog or a cat, but I have always been fascinated by their diversity."

"Most people have never looked closely at the world of insects."

Most people wouldn't want to look too closely at a Madagascar hissing roach or a black Eastern Lubber grasshopper. Busching is particularly excited about the prospect of the upcoming arrival of a four-inch-long African Goliath beetle.

Right now, he's in charge of devising ways to keep the insects alive in captivity.

"Some of them have never been kept in captivity before and we don't know exactly what their requirements for survival are going to be," Busching said.

"The cockroach is not particular and is most adaptable. The only thing we have to give them is a large space."

But if people worry about cockroaches in their homes, cockroaches worry about having mites, Busching said.

The butterflies have proved to be a bit of a problem because they require a great deal of space in which to fly. When the insectarium opens, visitors will be able to view them in a kind of butterfly aviary, where they will mingle freely.

WOMEN'S SUIT — Kim Lindsey, 14, received first place on her woman's suit and her meal cookies. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lindsey, 8200 Brooks-Miller Road.

Children are also introduced to colors, art, songs and games, and the YMCA gym for physical development.

Mrs. Ethel Maze, a certified teacher, will be the YMCA Pre-School instructor this year.

The class will also visit a regular Kindergarten class at one of the local schools.

Ohio spent a rain-free night, but more precipitation was on the way.

For the 24 hours ending at 8 p.m. Sunday, rainfall amounts ranged from as little as .12 inch in Findlay to as much as 1.82 inches at the Akron-Canton airport and 2.32 inches at Columbus.

There has been no change in the overall weather picture of moist unstable air flow over Ohio. The state was between two shower areas overnight — one to the east and the other over the Iowa-Illinois-Wisconsin area.

Radar and satellite indications were that the showers and thundershowers from the west would reach the state during the morning.

BIRDS EYE VIEW — This photo was taken Friday afternoon of Pickaway County Fair week. Many other area residents saw the fairgrounds from a similar vantage point in the Mid Ohio Chemicals' helicopter that took up a four-day residence in the parking lot of the fairgrounds, and offered rides to those adventurous souls who wanted to fly. For a bit of orientation, the helicopter was over Route 22 East, with the camera pointed southwest, when this picture was taken.

Caring For Beetles Occupies Man's Time

CINCINNATI (AP) — His livelihood might send some people screaming for an exterminator, but Milan Busching claims he has the perfect job — caring for giant beetles and hand-feeding stubborn butterflies.

Busching is the entomologist at the Cincinnati Zoo and is preparing for the opening next year of a new "Insectarium."

An entire building will be devoted to insects and visitors will be able to see them alive instead of stuck on boards with pins.

"I'm right in my element," said Busching, "raising insects and collecting them. That's something I've been doing since I was a child."

The 26-year-old Busching spends his day feeding apple slices to four inch beetles and doling out fruitflies and more than 1,000 crickets a week to

Browns Face Redskins

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns are looking forward to tonight's opening National Football League preseason game with George Allen's Washington Redskins.

"Our guys were pretty leg weary after the two-a-days," said Cleveland Coach Forrest Gregg. "But by Monday night, they'll be chomping at the bit. All football players get tired of seeing the same old faces and hitting the same people, particularly because they're teammates."

But Gregg also expressed mixed feelings about opening the year against Allen's reknowned "Over-the-Hill Gang."

"I'd rather open with a team that's not so experienced," Gregg explained. "But I do like to play Washington."

"They're going to do a lot of things against us better than anyone else, particularly the special teams," he added. "It's going to open a lot of eyes and show these kids how far they have to go to know it all."

Gregg said Brian Sipe and Dave Mays, the top two quarterbacks, will handle all of the signal calling against Washington, with former Cleveland prep star Brian Dowling and Joe Theismann handling the quarterbacking duties for Washington. Redskin starter Bill Kilmer is expected to miss the game because of a sore throwing arm.

CAN-AM WINNER — Patrick Tambay roars over the Mid-Ohio sports car course in the Valvoline Can-Am race to post a win over Elliott Forbes-Robinson and a strong field.

Tambay, by way of his second Citicorp Can-Am Challenge series victory, leads the chase for the Citicorp Cup.

Twins Clobber Cleveland; Win 11-1

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

It isn't easy for a hitter to do more damage than Rod Carew. Especially when the Twins' star goes 4-for-5.

But Minnesota third baseman Mike Cabbage did just that Sunday as the Twins overwhelmed Cleveland 11-1. Cabbage had a home run, a triple and a double, drove in five runs and scored two as the Twins moved to within a half-game of first place Chicago in the American League West. Carew merely had three doubles and a single, scoring four times and knocking in a run.

"This is a funny game," Cabbage said after his slugging performance. "I woke up this morning feeling lousy and I couldn't get any wood on the ball at all in batting practice. Then I go out and have a day like this."

Cabbage's fine performance rivaled his five-RBI game Friday night against the Indians, who lost three straight games to the rampaging Twins. Minnesota has won 17 of its last 22 games.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston beat Oakland 5-2, Texas took Detroit 4-1, Kansas City downed the White Sox 3-2, California stopped Baltimore 6-3, New York beat Seattle 7-1 and Milwaukee swept a pair from Toronto 6-2 and 7-5.

Red Sox 5, A's 2

Bernie Carbo led off the ninth inning with his 12th home run and Fred Lynn added a three-run shot as the Red Sox won their 10th straight game and the A's dropped their ninth in a row.

Boston opened up a 3½-game lead in the AL East over Baltimore behind Rick Wise, 8-4, and Bill Campbell, who notched his 19th save of the season.

Rangers 4, Tigers 1

Dock Ellis hurled an eight-hitter for his first victory in a month as the Rangers continued their hot pace. Ellis, 6-9, pitched out of several jams despite being off-form.

Texas has now won 22 of its last 28

games.

Royals 3, White Sox 2

Kansas City completed a three-game sweep of the division-leading White Sox when John Wathan pinch-hit an RBI single in the ninth inning.

Wathan's winning hit came off rookie Randy Wiles, making his major league debut.

Wiles was heartbroken but still happy to be in the major leagues.

"I had never seen this many people before," Wiles said of the 40,000-plus crowd.

Oscar Gamble's 20th home run of the year had tied the game in the ninth for Chicago.

Angels 6, Orioles 3

Bobby Bonds homered for the fifth consecutive game as the Angels completed a three-game sweep of Baltimore. The Angels beat Oriole ace Jim Palmer, 12-10, as Rance Mulliniks singled in two runs in a four-run sixth.

"This is as close I have come to a home run streak since I was with the Yankees and hit 11 in nine days," said Bonds. "I was physically and mentally beat recently but being the designated hitter a couple of times this week helped."

Yankees 7, Mariners 1

Mike Torrez' six-hitter and Paul Blair's home run and three RBI propelled the Yankees past Seattle. Torrez, 11-10, did not allow a hit in the first 41-3 innings and was in control throughout.

"That's as good as he's ever been,"

Wins Scramble

The team of Jack Hutchinson, Bud Ferguson, Sid Sanders, and Bud Enoch shot a 57 to win the ABCD Scramble Tournament at Pickaway Country Club.

Five teams tied for second with 63s and five were knotted for third with 64s.

League members are urged to sign-up for the upcoming league picnic.

Set Free Clinic For Baseballers

Instructors from the Valley Vista sports camp near Bainbridge will be in charge of the clinic, which will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

The clinic is open to any boy or girl of any age who wishes to participate.

Browns Face Redskins

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns are looking forward to tonight's opening National Football League preseason game with George Allen's Washington Redskins.

"Our guys were pretty leg weary after the two-a-days," said Cleveland Coach Forrest Gregg. "But by Monday night, they'll be chomping at the bit. All football players get tired of seeing the same old faces and hitting the same people, particularly because they're teammates."

But Gregg also expressed mixed feelings about opening the year against Allen's renowned "Over-the-Hill Gang."

"I'd rather open with a team that's not so experienced," Gregg explained. "But I do like to play Washington."

"They're going to do a lot of things against us better than anyone else, particularly the special teams," he added. "It's going to open a lot of eyes and show these kids how far they have to go to know it all."

Gregg said Brian Sipe and Dave Mays, the top two quarterbacks, will handle all of the signal calling against Washington, with former Cleveland prep star Brian Dowling and Joe Theismann handling the quarterbacking duties for Washington. Redskin starter Bill Kilmer is expected to miss the game because of a sore throwing arm.

CAN-AM WINNER — Patrick Tambay roars over the Mid-Ohio sports car course in the Valvoline Can-Am race to post a win over Elliott Forbes-Robinson and a strong field.

Tambay, by way of his second Citicorp Can-Am Challenge series victory, leads the chase for the Citicorp Cup.

Twins Clobber Cleveland; Win 11-1

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

It isn't easy for a hitter to do more damage than Rod Carew. Especially when the Twins' star goes 4-for-5.

But Minnesota third baseman Mike Cabbage did just that Sunday as the Twins overwhelmed Cleveland 11-1. Cabbage had a home run, a triple and a double, drove in five runs and scored two as the Twins moved to within a half-game of first place Chicago in the American League West. Carew merely had three doubles and a single, scoring four times and knocking in a run.

"This is a funny game," Cabbage said after his slugging performance. "I woke up this morning feeling lousy and I couldn't get any wood on the ball at all in batting practice. Then I go out and have a day like this."

Cabbage's fine performance rivaled his five-RBI game Friday night against the Indians, who lost three straight games to the rampaging Twins. Minnesota has won 17 of its last 22 games.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston beat Oakland 5-2, Texas took Detroit 4-1, Kansas City downed the White Sox 3-2, California stopped Baltimore 6-3, New York beat Seattle 7-1 and Milwaukee swept a pair from Toronto 6-2 and 7-5.

Red Sox 5, A's 2

Bernie Carbo led off the ninth inning with his 12th home run and Fred Lynn added a three-run shot as the Red Sox won their 10th straight game and the A's dropped their ninth in a row.

Boston opened up a 3½-game lead in the AL East over Baltimore behind Rick Wise, 8-4, and Bill Campbell, who notched his 19th save of the season.

Rangers 4, Tigers 1

Dock Ellis hurled an eight-hitter for his first victory in a month as the Rangers continued their hot pace. Ellis, 6-9, pitched out of several jams despite being off-form.

Texas has now won 22 of its last 28

games.

Royals 3, White Sox 2

Kansas City completed a three-game sweep of the division-leading White Sox when John Wathan pinch-hit an RBI single in the ninth inning.

Wathan's winning hit came off rookie Randy Wiles, making his major league debut.

Wiles was heartbroken but still happy to be in the major leagues.

"I had never seen this many people before," Wiles said of the 40,000-plus crowd.

Oscar Gamble's 20th home run of the year had tied the game in the ninth for Chicago.

Angels 6, Orioles 3

Bobby Bonds homered for the fifth consecutive game as the Angels completed a three-game sweep of Baltimore. The Angels beat Oriole ace Jim Palmer, 12-10, as Rance Mulliniks singled in two runs in a four-run sixth.

"This is as close I have come to a home run streak since I was with the Yankees and hit 11 in nine days," said Bonds. "I was physically and mentally beat recently but being the designated hitter a couple of times this week helped."

Yankees 7, Mariners 1

Mike Torrez' six-hitter and Paul Blair's home run and three RBI propelled the Yankees past Seattle. Torrez, 11-10, did not allow a hit in the first 41-3 innings and was in control throughout.

"That's as good as he's ever been,"

Wins Scramble

The team of Jack Hutchinson, Bud Ferguson, Sid Sanders, and Bud Enoch shot a 57 to win the ABCD Scramble Tournament at Pickaway Country Club.

Five teams tied for second with 63s and five were knotted for third with 64s.

League members are urged to sign-up for the upcoming league picnic.

Set Free Clinic For Baseballers

A free baseball clinic sponsored by the Walnut Little League will be held Saturday morning at the baseball diamond at the Walnut Elementary School.

Instructors from the Valley Vista sports camp near Bainbridge will be in charge of the clinic, which will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

The clinic is open to any boy or girl of any age who wishes to participate.

ALL STARS — These two young men were selected to the All Stars' All Star team in the recent Hilliard Little League Tournament. They are Greg Huffer, left, and Brett Kelchner.

Soto Leads Reds To 6-0 Win

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eureka! Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson is convinced the Reds' fertile farm system has yielded another gem.

"He's the finest young pitcher I've ever seen...and that includes Don Gullett," said Anderson after 21-year-old rookie righthander Mario Soto stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0 Sunday.

In recent years, the Reds have enriched their roster with youngsters Ken Griffey, Dan Driessen, Rawly Eastwick and Pat Zachry.

Soto, rushed up from the minors last month when Cincinnati pitching soured, fired a seven-hitter to post his first major league shutout in just his third start.

The spirit-lifting victory came as the Reds opened a four-game series in Los Angeles tonight against the front-running Dodgers. The Reds, who trail the Dodgers by 1½ games, almost need a sweep to rekindle hopes of repeating as champions of the National League Western Division.

Soto, a catcher during his school days in the Dominican Republic, outdueled veteran Jim Rooker, who had a three-hitter going into the seventh when the Reds scored five unearned runs. Rooker, 9-6, opened the door with a two-run error to snapped the scoreless tie.

Anderson, who has had little to applaud since the world champions fell 10 games behind early in the season, sees Soto as something special.

"He's so talented. He does everything. Unless I'm totally crazy, the kid will be outstanding in a couple years. By next April he will be a legitimate No. 2 starter on any staff," said Anderson.

Soto, only in his second full season of pro ball after breaking his pitching arm in successive seasons, shows signs of stabilizing a staff which has been flirting with the worst earned run average in the National League.

Armed with a fiery fastball and a baffling slider, Soto and Tom Seaver gave the Reds two power pitchers for the first time in a decade. Now 2-1, he threw seven shutout innings against the Chicago Cubs last week before losing.

"His fastball was clocked at 97 miles per hour," said Anderson of Sunday's performance. "That's faster than Seaver can throw them."

Anderson originally opposed the promotion of Soto from the Reds Class AAA farm team in Indianapolis.

"I didn't want to bring him up. I thought he needed the experience at Indianapolis," said Anderson.

"We've been very lucky he didn't scuff around. He's thrown in front of sellout crowds in Chicago, lost a game in front of 50,000 people here and pitched today in front of 40,000. It's got to do him good," said Anderson.

Three Pittsburgh errors in the seventh enabled Cincinnati to break it open. Twice the Pirates threw the ball into centerfield trying to get a runner at second.

Soto contributed a sacrifice fly to drive in a run.

The victory was only the third in 12 meetings with Pittsburgh this season. Pittsburgh fell three games division-leading Philadelphia in the Eastern Division.

Anderson predicts the Pirates will win the tight race between the Phils and Cubs. "They have so many the way they can manhandle you. And they have the best player in America in Dave Parker."

ALL STARS — These two young men were selected to the All Stars' All Star team in the recent Hilliard Little League Tournament. They are Greg Huffer, left, and Brett Kelchner.

Soto Leads Reds To 6-0 Win

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eureka! Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson is convinced the Reds' fertile farm system has yielded another gem.

"He's the finest young pitcher I've ever seen...and that includes Don Gullett," said Anderson after 21-year-old rookie righthander Mario Soto stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0 Sunday.

In recent years, the Reds have enriched their roster with youngsters Ken Griffey, Dan Driessen, Rawly Eastwick and Pat Zachry.

Soto, rushed up from the minors last month when Cincinnati pitching soured, fired a seven-hitter to post his first major league shutout in just his third start.

The spirit-lifting victory came as the Reds opened a four-game series in Los Angeles tonight against the front-running Dodgers. The Reds, who trail the Dodgers by 1 1/2 games, almost need a sweep to rekindle hopes of repeating as champions of the National League Western Division.

Soto, a catcher during his school days in the Dominican Republic, outdueled veteran Jim Rooker, who had a three-hitter going into the seventh when the Reds scored five unearned runs. Rooker, 9-6, opened the door with a two-run error to snapped the scoreless tie.

Anderson, who has had little to applaud since the world champions fell 10 games behind early in the season, sees Soto as something special.

"He's so talented. He does everything. Unless I'm totally crazy, the kid will be outstanding in a couple years. By next April he will be a legitimate No. 2 starter on any staff," said Anderson.

Soto, only in his second full season of pro ball after breaking his pitching arm in successive seasons, shows signs of stabilizing a staff which has been flirting with the worst earned run average in the National League.

Armed with a fiery fastball and a baffling slider, Soto and Tom Seaver give the Reds two power pitchers for the first time in a decade. Now 2-1, he threw seven shutout innings against the Chicago Cubs last week before losing.

"His fastball was clocked at 97 miles per hour," said Anderson of Sunday's performance. "That's faster than Seaver can throw them."

Anderson originally opposed the promotion of Soto from the Reds Class AAA farm team in Indianapolis.

"I didn't want to bring him up. I thought he needed the experience at Indianapolis," said Anderson.

"We've been very lucky he didn't scuff around. He's thrown in front of sellout crowds in Chicago, lost a game in front of 50,000 people here and pitched today in front of 40,000. It's got to do him good," said Anderson.

Three Pittsburgh errors in the seventh enabled Cincinnati to break it open. Twice the Pirates threw the ball into centerfield trying to get a runner at second.

Soto contributed a sacrifice fly to drive in a run.

The victory was only the third in 12 meetings with Pittsburgh this season. Pittsburgh fell three games division-leading Philadelphia in the Eastern Division.

Anderson predicts the Pirates will win the tight race between the Phils and Cubs. "They have so many the way they can manhandle you. And they have the best player in America in Dave Parker."

Allison Wins At Talladega

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — "Maybe we should get some sort of good guy award or something," Darrell Waltrip said after relief-driving Donnie Allison's Chevrolet to victory in the Talladega 500 Grand National stock car race.

"We sold one of our engines to Ricky Rudd this morning so he could start the race, and he ends up fourth. Then we helped Donnie win," Waltrip said Sunday.

If Waltrip was wishing he'd sold Rudd a different engine, or been in his own Chevrolet, which expired after 106 of 188 laps, he didn't show it much.

Allison, who doesn't remember calling for a relief driver since the World 600 in 1969, was on the edge of consciousness, suffering from the 96-degree heat and high humidity when his crew substituted Waltrip.

"I'd asked for David Pearson or Benny Parsons, because I knew they were out of the race. I hadn't even thought about Darrell," Allison said. "I'm awful glad he showed up, though. He did everything that could have been expected of him."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Unmarried and pregnant, Charlotte asked her doctor to arrange for an adoption. After the baby was born she completed all the legal formalities. Then, months later, she decided she had made a mistake. In a court hearing Charlotte tried to have the adoption cancelled. Grounds: duress. "I was weak and depressed at the time I signed those papers," she explained. "Giving your consent in that mood should not count."

However, the court ruled that the adoption was valid. Calling Charlotte's mood normal under the circumstances, the court said people would become leery of adopting children if the procedure was too easy to revoke.

It is true that an adoption may be cancelled because of duress. But, out of concern for the adopting parents, courts are cautious about recognizing such a plea.

In another adoption case the mother claimed duress on the ground that her doctor, her clergyman, and her own mother had all urged her to give the baby up.

But again, the court said this was not enough to constitute duress in the eyes of the law. The court pointed out that at the time of the adoption, in juvenile court, the mother had been clearly informed that the decision was hers alone to make.

On the other hand the court did find duress in another case involving a young married couple. Here, a few days after the birth of their baby, the father told the mother that he had lost his job and was walking out on her.

In desperation, she decided on an immediate adoption. But this time a court decided later that these pressures — along with technical irregularities — were too serious to disregard. Revoking the adoption, the court said:

"The circumstances prevented her from exercising her own free will."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR TUESDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Your public relations acedent now, with special emphasis on responses to your efforts and presentation of ideas. Curb your innate aggressiveness. Win your way through tact and diplomacy.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Take a close look at factors which influence your decisions. Try to build a sturdier platform to insure a more successful assault on objectives. And do NOT lose faith in them.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): If considering a new proposition, study carefully, regardless of who wishes to hurry things through. View offerings with an eye to the future.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): You grasp ideas easily, see benefits to be gained where others only note the obstacles. Use your instincts NOW — and go forward.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Getting what you want — and quickly — may be day's main problem. The answer lies just around the corner. Don't expect it to be obvious, however. You'll have to dig deep.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Some detail you overlooked may upset the smooth tenor of your work. Pick up where most practical and go on. Crying over "spilt milk" is a waste of time.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Don't shirk responsibility. Accept its challenge. Especially now, when a person in authority has already become intrigued with your potentials.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A step in the right direction can be accelerated later when footing is surer. If you do get a wrong start, switch tactics or change pace. YOU CAN make it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): An on-and-off day, but you should do well if you stress your innate competence and perseverance. In some matters you'll gain more by following unconventional methods.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Avoid the illogical and close your eyes to the dubious schemes of others — no matter how attractively they may be presented. Don't be blinded by your emotions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Your management of material resources now comes up for review and, perhaps, criticism. Keep things orderly and in balance. Verify all "information" if you'd stay ahead.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Look for the "loopholes" that trick needlessly; be alert to misrepresentation; sift carefully for truths. Once sure you are on the right track, go ahead confidently — and profitably.

YOU BORN TODAY are unusually independent and self-reliant; imaginative, competent in all your endeavors and magnetic of personality. As an orator, lecturer or theatrical performer, your influence could be spellbinding. You should have some form of art as an avocation as a writer, painter, designer or illustrator. You have a great constitution was adopted by the colony of Connecticut in 1639.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — We hate to sadden award-show haters, but it seems there really will be a 29th annual Emmy awards show for evening programs after all — on NBC's "Big Event" next Sept. 11.

You'll recall this tuxedo rally once was set for May 15, but fell apart amid feuding by the New York and Los Angeles chapters of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

The feud got so bad that TV stars here defected from the show by the gross. This raised the grave prospect that almost no one in nighttime TV would get an Emmy award this year. Unthinkable.

So in July they agreed on two separate Emmy tribes. The new Academy of Television Arts and Sciences here got custody of all evening Emmying. The Gotham gang got daytime and sports to salute.

ATAS, as the evening shift is called, issued its roster of nominations last week. The roster was impressive. It was more than a quarter-inch thick and weighed 11 ounces.

It contained 66 categories of nominations, compared to a parsimonious 18 for last April's rousing "Television Critics' Circle Awards" festival on CBS. ATAS does not mess around.

Fortunately, only the major categories — acting, writing, directing and showing up for last year's Emmys — will be announced on the air.

The roster also showed 594 names eligible for Emmys. This doesn't mean 594 folks were nominated, though. Many contenders were nominated for more than one show or in more than one category.

For example, public TV's Jac Venza is a five-count contender as executive producer of four efforts from "The Adams Chronicles" to "Arthur Rubenstein at 90," and for designing the scenery of the "Billy the Kid" episode of "American Ballet Theater."

Should he go home without an Emmy, you may expect the sun to rise in the West. And it is a safe bet anyone even remotely connected to ABC's "Roots" will get a statuette to take home.

That eight-part proceedings, a ratings hit last January, swept last week's nominations, getting 37 for individual and collective effort.

The sweep was so clean four "Roots" thespians were nominated in the category, "Outstanding Lead Actor for a Single Appearance in a Drama or Comedy Series." No one from any other show qualified here.

This seems unfair. Honorable mention at least should go to the outstanding lead actors appearing in any one of the three glittering New York parties NBC aired last Sept. 26 in its first "Big Event."

Depending on your point of view, the parties easily qualified as dramas or comedies, and dragged on so long you could call them a series. They, also, came in last in the ratings that week.

Even with the glittering Emmy party, will the "Big Event" repeat history as it opens its second season the night of Sept. 11?

Place your bets, friends. The competition that night is a CBS movie, "Zandy's Bride," and ABC's finale of "Washington: Behind Closed Doors," a miniseries based on John Ehrlichman's, "The Company."

Play it safe by never using one hammer to strike another.

The world's first written constitution was adopted by the colony of Connecticut in 1639.

The fandango, a Spanish dance of the 18th century, reserves of strength and are probably came to Europe from the West Indies.

Printers Slow With State Bills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes' desk probably won't be cleared of bills from the recently adjourned legislature for about another month.

He had a batch still under consideration or on their way from the printer when the Senate and House combined to send him about three dozen more July 29 as they went into summer recess.

The delay in action by the governor can be confusing, since the law provides that he has only 10 days to sign a bill, veto it, or let it become law without his signature.

However, the key point is that the clock doesn't start running on the 10 days until Rhodes actually receives custody of the finalized bill. Also Sundays and holidays are not counted as part of the 10-day period.

The time lag at the printers is unpredictable, but two and three weeks is not uncommon.

As one example, the legislature completed passage June 28 of a measure allowing Ohioans to purchase auto tags and stickers by mail, starting in 1979. Rhodes didn't sign it into law until a month and a day later, on July 29.

On another bill that allows establishment of family and group homes for the mentally retarded in residential neighborhoods, the legislature completed passage July 11, Rhodes got it from the printer July 20, and signed it Aug. 1, the last of the 10 days allowed.

The law is not specific on the amount of time the bill can remain at the print shop.

At one time earlier in the session, some measures were held up as a result of a strike at National Graphics Corp., Columbus, which does legislative printing. However, the problem was resolved within a few days.

Nonemergency acts of the legislature do not take effect for 90 days after they are signed by the governor, or let go without his signature—and delivered to the secretary of state. This is almost always done the same day, and the secretary routinely assigns the effective date.

Bills passed as emergency measures, requiring two thirds majorities in each chamber, are effective upon the governor's signature or at the expiration of the 10th day after he acquired custody.

If he vetoes either a regular bill or an emergency bill, it then returns to the house of origin. The question of overriding the governor on a bill may be brought up at any time during a continuing biennial legislative session—even months later.

Part-Time Cowgirl Likes Great Outdoors

COFFEYVILLE, Kan. (AP) — Once a week, 18-year-old Susan Seger stuffs her dark brown hair under a baseball cap, puts on faded jeans and mounts her colt for a sharp departure from her weekday office job.

Her Saturdays this summer have been spent ramrodding cattle into pens for a local livestock company, her part-time work sometimes extending past midnight when cattle sales are heavy.

"I'd much rather be doing something outside," she said. "I get a lot of enjoyment out of it and, of course, I get paid for it. And it's a good place to break a young colt."

Miss Seger, a student at Coffeyville Community Junior College, said she finds satisfaction in the cattle pens, despite the raucous steers she sometimes encounters, the pungent manure in the pens and the salty language of some of the male cowpokes.

"Now, I'm just one of the guys," she said, grinning. "I wouldn't want to be treated like some crazy girl."

Cattle, she said, "are really just as scared of you as you are of them." But she still winces at the thought of an experience with a bull that almost pinned her against a fence when she was on foot. Her rescuer pulled her over the fence by the shirt collar.

Monday through Friday, Miss Seger is at a desk in the cost-accounting department of a manufacturing firm, totaling charges for bills on computer sheets.

She said she is interested in office work as a career, but hopes that part of her future includes the outdoors. One of her goals is to ride her barrel-racing horse in rodeos.

Once she has her horse broken in, Miss Seger said, she may give rodeo competition a try. She said she has placed in barrel-racing events in small contests, but has never tried the big-league circuit.

"It's a hard thing to do," she said. "I don't think I could do it. I'd probably go broke trying."

OUTDOORS — Chris Wellman, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wellman, 1455 N. Court St., placed first in Outdoor Cooking II and second in International Foods.

More Kutler Testimony Slated

CINCINNATI (AP) — Another week of grisly testimony is expected at the murder trial of Dr. Stuart Kutler, which resumes today.

Opening days of the trial of the 31-year-old physician from Brecksville, Ohio were marked by the same emotionalism that led to transfer of the case from Cuyahoga County due to pretrial publicity.

Testimony last week included weeping outbursts by a mother and grandmother who unfolded the story of the alleged beating death of an 8-year-old boy, and the sexual activities of the boy's mother, the prosecution's star witness.

The jury of eight men and four women heard Ann Marie Noske, Kutler's former lover, maintain that she went along with a coverup of her son Arthur's death because "I loved Stu and I was carrying his baby."

She said she also believed that "no one could bring back my baby, and he told me everything would work out for the best."

Miss Noske disavowed the coverup story and told the jury that Kutler beat her son to death Feb. 4. The body of the young boy has not been found.

Kutler faces a 15 year-to-life sentence if convicted.

The face of the 32-year-old Miss Noske was twisted with emotion through much of her testimony. Mention of her 8-year-old son frequently caused Miss Noske to sob, and Judge Hanna was forced to call a recess until she could continue.

If there were any emotional relief after Miss Noske stepped down from the witness stand, it was not provided by her mother Helen Noske, who had to be helped into the courtroom and who could not raise her hand to be sworn in as a witness.

She told the court that she felt like she was both a father and mother to the young boy before breaking down when the prosecutor showed her Arthur's First Communion picture. "It's Arthur," she sobbed, with the picture to her lips as she wept.

Judge Harry Hanna dismissed the jury, which filed past the 57-year-old grandmother as she clutched the picture to her breast.

Judge Hanna repeatedly had problems confining Mrs. Noske to answering only what she was asked during her 90 minutes on the witness stand.

At one point, she turned to the defense table, and stared at the baby-faced 31-year Kutler.

"Look how innocent he looks," she said.

Judge Hanna ordered the jurors to disregard the comment.

The prosecution has summoned 25 other witnesses whose testimony could be completed by Thursday.

Policeman Injured, Pair Arrested

A Circleville Police officer was hospitalized following a 2:23 a.m. Sunday incident in front of Nates Disco on W. Main St.

According to the report, police headquarters received a call of a fight taking place in front of the establishment.

Police units were dispatched to the scene, and the first officer to arrive was Ptl. Ron Thompson.

The report states that Ptl. Thompson started to place Donald Haddox under arrest for disorderly conduct, and Haddox reportedly resisted arrest. Physical restraint had to be used to place Haddox in the police cruiser.

According to the report, as Thompson was attempting to restrain Haddox, a subject identified as Bruce Rutherford, 23, 525 E. Mound St., approached Thompson and kicked him in the right rib cage.

Sgt. Ken Henn at this time placed Rutherford under arrest, and Rutherford reportedly resisted arrest also. Henn had to use physical restraint to place Rutherford in the police cruiser.

Rutherford was treated at Berger Hospital for slight injuries he received in the scuffle.

Ptl. Thompson was hospitalized for treatment of fractured ribs. He was released from the hospital Sunday morning.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies Dale Parish and Bob Woodward were called to the scene for assistance.

Haddox was charged with two counts of assault and battery on a police officer, disorderly conduct, and resisting arrest. Rutherford was charged with resisting arrest and felonious assault.

Both Haddox and Rutherford pled not guilty to the charges in Circleville Municipal Court this morning, and had their cases continued.

Commissioners At Meeting

The Pickaway County Commissioners met Friday, since they were attending a conference in Canton today.

Permission was granted to General Telephone to work along and beside Groveport Road, Circleville-Lockbourne Road, and Hayesville-Adelphi Road, in order to bury telephone cables. Work is to begin September 1, and is to be completed in 150 days.

The Commissioners applied for and received a H.U.D. development grant for the construction of a Senior Center.

Helen Legg of Xerox was granted permission to make a survey of all copy machines in the Pickaway County Court House and Sheriff's Department.

William Stout and Donald J. Humphrey were reappointed to the Airport Authority.

A check from Thomas E. Ferguson, state auditor, for $1,720.75, was received.

An estimate was presented to the Commissioners for the possibility of establishing computerized voter registration for the county. No plans were finalized and the commissioners desired another estimate.

Petitions were filed by Muriel Wright in a complaint against PPG Industries regarding fumes and odors.

The Commissioners will meet in regular session, Monday, August 15.

OPEN DATED for FRESHNESS!

At Kroger, you'll find freshness dates on some 1900 food products. Such as milk or eggs or bread. Or packaged fresh meats and fresh fruits and vegetables. And even many other items other grocers don't open-date . . . like jelly, snack crackers or peanut butter.

What does this freshness date mean to you—the consumer? The easy-to-read month and day (unlike old-fashioned code dating) tells us—and you—the last day a product may be sold in our store. That's so we're both sure that the product will be fresh when you buy it and take it home . . . and fresh in your home for an average usage period (or longer).

At Kroger, we believe that consumers have the right to know more about the foods they buy. That's why we voluntarily began open-dating more foods than just about any body else in the country. This is one more Kroger service designed to help you—the consumer.

We hear you and we're trying to help!
